STYLE MANUAL FOR BIOLOGICAL JOURNALS

Prepared by: The Committee on Form and Style of the Conference of Biological Editors

The Style Manual is designed for biologists preparing manuscripts for publication in scientific journals. Style is interpreted broadly to mean forms of expression in scholarly writing, and the general technical requirements of journals, such as details for typing manuscripts, standard abbreviations, and citation of references. The instructions and recommendations represent good usage and practice.

Recommendations proposed by the International Standards Organization, the International Council of Scientific Unions Abstracting Board, the International Committee on Weights and Measures, and the American Standards Association were considered carefully by the Committee and adopted.

The editorial boards of 78 biological journals have adopted the manual in whole or in part, so as to establish uniform standards in biological publications. Scientists submitting manuscripts to any of the 78 journals should use the Style Manual as a guide.

THE QUARTERLY REVIEW OF BIOLOGY

FOUNDED BY RAYMOND PEARL, 1924

Editor, Bentley Glass, Johns Hopkins University

THE QUARTERLY REVIEW OF BIOLOGY publishes reviews of recent research in all specialized fields of biological science, presenting a synthesis or digest and an evaluation of the research.

Theoretical papers are published on occasion, especially when such papers include a critique of the literature bearing on the theory and are likely to promote further research in the given field.

A feature of the REVIEW is the section dealing with new biological books. In this department biological book literature of different countries is given comprehensive consideration.

Current Issues Published: Vol. 35, Nos. 1-4, 1960.

Yearly Subscriptions: $10.00 ($8.00, AIBS Members); $10.25, Canada; $10.75, Foreign subscriptions. Single copies: $2.75 (plus postage)
